FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

NEW SENIOR HOUSING PROJECT INCORPORATES INTERGENERATIONAL PRESCHOOL

Southview Senior Living's newest senior housing project—Inver Glen Senior Living in Inver Grove Heights—will incorporate an on-site intergenerational preschool when it opens in Fall, 2009. For residents of the 103-unit building, Southview will provide a full range of amenities and care, along with the opportunity to participate in organized activities with young children.

Lance Lemieux, Southview Senior Living's owner, says, "We know that bringing generations together enhances life for everyone. Our clients will enjoy the children's liveliness and the children will enjoy their elders' kindness and wisdom."

All Seasons Preschool owner and manager, Amy Lemieux (Mr. Lemieux's wife), is looking forward to the opening. "We've got a whole slate of activities planned for the kids and the seniors: reading, crafts, games, and outdoor activities. We can't wait to see them work and play together."

Ms. Lemieux's forward-thinking preschool will also include an environmental curriculum to help kids learn more about "living green." "It's not just about recycling. It's about tuning in to how our actions and choices affect the living things around us. This LEED building will also be a great teaching tool for us," says Ms. Lemieux, referring to the "green" features that are being used in the building.

The preschool's environmental curriculum includes such topics as watershed processes, plant life cycles, sunshine and light, air quality, and recycling. Most activities will focus on the immediate surroundings—the building and its site. Lemieux adds, "Most of what we need to learn is right here. We just need to look at things with a wide enough perspective."

Construction of Inver Glen Senior Living and All Seasons Preschool is scheduled to be completed in September 2009.

XXXX XXXXX Preschool has been providing licensed care to children ages X – X for XX years. Southview Senior Living has been a Twin Cities-based family-owned senior housing developer and manager since 1966.
